BIG PROJECTS ARE VISITED

Land Board Members and Others See What Is Being Done in Idaho.

BIG OPPORTUNITY IN UTAH.

Sevier Valley Lands Offer Exceptional Inducements Under Provisions Of Carey Act.

The reason the Utah state land poard was invited to visit and inspect the large irrigation systems in Idaho ecently, was to convince the members if the board that irrigation projects can be carried on on a large scale sucessfully, that people from the east with money can be induced to purchase farms in the west and invest other

The invitation was extended to the land board by Alex McPherson who, in connection with I. B. Perrine, and backed up by eastern capitalists, have conducted nearly all the large irrigation projects in Idaho so successfully.

"When we looked into the project of When we looked into the project of the Sevier River company," said Mr. McPherson, "we say immediately that there were great possibilities in the State of Utah apparently unnoticed by the people of the state. There is flowing to waste at this moment 1,300 cubic feet of water every second in the Sevier river, and it is flowing through the great Pahvant valley in Millard county, where peaches, apples grapes. vier river, and it is flowing through the great Pahvant valley in Miliard county, where peaches, apples, grapes, the small fruits and practically all the most valuable crops from trees as'e grown with wonderful success on the benchiand. Why then should not this water which is running to waste be carried around the foot hills, and used on this choice land? Here there is fall enough to the river so that the irrigating can be done by gravity alone. Such a proposition as this would be a profitable investment if the water for irrigating purposes had to be pumped through 100 feet or more of elevation. There is no such proposition as this in Idaho. Then again." says Mr. Mo-pherson, "through this tract of land is the main line of the Salt Lake Route, with Los Angeles at one end and Salt Lake (ity at the other, and extensive rich mining districts between in both directions. There is no such a proposition as this in Idaho. The water is here, the land is here, the climate is here, the market is here. here, the market is here. Such condi-tions make this proposition ideal."

BOARD ON THE SCENE.

If there was any opposition or lack of optimism on the part of the people of Idaho in regard to their irrigation projects formerly, all this has certainly vanished. At Milner, early Saturday morning, the Oregon Short Line train was held by the officials of that road in order to give the Utah state land board and other of storying the private car in which, they rode an opportunity to inspect the marvelous Milner dam. This structure has been constructed across the Snake giver, where it handles 29 times as much water daily as flows in the Sevier river during the high water season. The enormous quantity of stone that has been carefully laid in the down stream portion of this dam, combined with the thick well packed puddle and rip rap on the up stream side, satisfy all who see this plece of engineering construction that it is absolutely secure. The spilliway up stream side, satisfy all who see this plece of engineering construction that it is absolutely secure. The spillway over the dam which is some 500 feet in length, is constructed in solid volcanic rock. This waste way is closed by 39 gates, each 4 feet wide and 10 feet high. All of these gates, by the electric mechanism which operates them, can be

The tops of these banks are on practically the same ele-vation as Twin Falls, and the million acres of land surrounding it which is easily reclaimed at present, or will be reclaimed in the next few years.

RESULTS ON PERRINE FARM. The spirit that has made these propositions in Idaho successful is the spirit that actuated I. B. Perrine, when he undertook to make a fruit farm at Blue Lakes. The timber with which his first home on this ranch was built, had to be lowered over the cliffs through a distance of 300 feet by means of ropes. He has planted trees wherever earth enough could be found to cover the roots of those trees. In his orchards are boulders 20 feet high, not occasional stones, as might be thought, but boulders everywhere, many of them as high as the tops of the trees. It is on this ranch that Mr. Pervine has raised 1,013 bushels of apples per acre. It is here he has harvested 904 crates of grapes from an acre. It is the spirit of this little man and his associates that has made Idaho the wonder of the irrigation world.

The country around Twin Falls has grown with unusual rapidity for the The spirit that has made these

The country around Twin Falls has grown with unusual rapidity for the reason that the cry "Back to the Farm" has taken into the neighborhood many men of means. There are not a few, but there are hundreds of elegant country homes here, which are beautiful from the architectural point of view. The fences, the barns, and all the buildings connected with the farm and farm life are artistically arranged, they are well constructed and well preserved.

"Who would not be fond of farm life" said. Mr. Glauque of the land board," If that life could be spent in a magnificent farm home of this sort?"

a magnificent farm home of this sort?"

The city of Twin Falls has in it four large school buildings, and besides these several others are rented for sechool purposes. The Lincoln school furnished cost $75,000, and the Bickel school furnished cost $75,000. There are 2,200 school children attending the public schools of this place, while the city itself has a population of but 6,000. The school district covers an area of six miles square, with Twin Falls and the school buildings in the center of it. Wagons are sent out daily to bring those children to school who live at a distance, and to take them to their homes again after school is finished. Sixteen wagons owned by the school district are used for this purpose. The teams used however are furnished by the farmers in the neighborhood, the contract for this team work being let to the lowthis team work being let to the low-est bidder

LOOKS BACKWARD.

In the address at the Twin Falls Commercial club Saturday evening, J. F. Stoitz, the secretary of the organization said, "Five years ago, there was not a telegraph pole where the city of Twin Falls now stands. In fact, there was nothing here but jack rabbits, sagebrush, and Bert Perrine. Today," he continued, "we have miles of cement sidewalks constructed, we are paying the streets of structed, we are paving the streets of our city, we have fine homes, many creditable business blocks, the Perrine hotel, which cost $156,000, and we are constructing a modern stone and steel business house which will cost not less then a quarter of a million dollars. All these things have been brought about by the progressive spirit of Mr. Perrine. Mr. McPherson and the capitalists who are behind them, and have faith in the final outcome of irrigation projects."

"I am pleased." said Mr. Candland, chairman of the Utah state land board, "to know that Mr. Perrine. Mr. Mc-Pherson and their associates are interested in several of the largest Carevact propositions in the State of Utah, and I do feel confident that with the resources of Utah, they will be able to accomplish in that state, in a smaller way however, what they have accomplished in Idaho." I trust that the

The work these men have done is such that I have absolute confidence in their ability to succeed in whatever proposition they undertake. I find that they look out as much for the welfare of the farmer as for the welfare of the capitalist."

Those who made up the party were, from Utah, W. D. Candland, chairman of the state land board, W. H. Parnsworth, secretary of the board. Arthur G. Glauque, W. H. Thayne, and M. M. Steel, board members, and also Richard R. Lyman, professor of civil engineering in the University of Utah; from Idaho, I. P. Perrine, Alex Mc-Pherson, S. T. Hamilton, Mark Austin, F. B. Robinson, C. ELOPEMENT THAT'S REAL ROMANTIC

San Diego, Cal., March 29.-Armed with two revolvers and determined to do battle for the lady of his choice against any odds, Thomas Foreman, the 17-year-old son of a wealthy mer chant of this place, for the second time cloped last night with Gertrude Scifert, his 15-year-old sweetheart, and headed for Death valley in an automobile. His progress was stayed by the snow which blocked the roads at Des Canos, 25 miles east of here, and it is reported that a battle has occurred at that place, the youthful Lochinvar standing off the posse which set out in pursuit. All wires to Des Canes are down and it is impossible to scure details. Young Foreman's first attempt to clope with Miss Selfert was made about a week ago but the couple was captured at Santa Ana, en route to Los Angeles, and brought back. Foreman was not to be daunted, how-ever, and early last night he got word to Miss Soifert to be ready when he came. To finance his expedition he borrowed from his father and friends, then securing two revolvers and charfering a motor car, he appeared under his lady's window when dark had fallen.

With courage that rivalled the lad's own, Misa Seifert knotted her bed sheets together and slid from her window to the ground. In another moment the machine was racing down the road, headed for the Cuyamaca mountains beyond which lies Death

The escape of the girl was discovered by her parents, and a posse started in pursuit. From one of young Foreman's friends it was learned that he had said that he proposed to go to Death valley, trusting that he might baffle pursuit in that trackiess waste. With this information to guide them, the posse headed toward Des Canos, where, it is said, they overtook the fleeing couple, the mountain roads having heen blocked by snow.

TODAY'S TEMPERATURES. YESTERDAY'S RECORD.

WIND AND FROST COME TOGETHER

Telegraph, Telephone and Power Lines Suffer Somewhat From the Combination.

HEAVY WINDS SAVE FRUIT

Orchardists Say They Prevented the Blight From Settling on Buds-Should be Protected Tonight.

Weather conditions have assumed omewhat unusual aspects within the ast 24 hours and the weather bureau this afternoon is sending out warnings to nurserymen, park attendants and florists to carefully safeguard their plants from frest. The indications are that heavy frosts will be experienced tonight.

The storm has again visited the Southern Pacific company's property on the lake with great damage, tearing out the western approach to the Lucin cutoff, told elsewhere in this issue of The News. The Western Union Telegraph company reports its mountain mes seriously damaged by last night's wind, but expects all damage to be rewind, but expects all damage to be re-paired by the end of today. The Pox-tal company has escaped damage. The telephone and power companies have been inconvenienced, but not to a great extent. The storm is general throughout the central portion of the country, sleet falling in many places accompanied by heavy winds and low temperatures. Of the storm in general Section Director A. H. Thiessen of the local office of the the storm in general Section Director A. H. Thiessen of the local office of the weather bureau says:

"Yesterday moderately deep low barometric areas were central over Colorado and British Columbia. These have coalesced, forming a storm of considerable energy with its center over Nebraska. This storm is causing weather changes which are characteristic of low pressure areas as they sweep across the country from west to east. To the east of the storm center, the temperatures have risen; while west of the storm center, temperatures have fallen sharply. Rain or snow, due to this storm, occurred in the Rocky mountains and their northern slope. In the east the temperatures are still high and much above normal. The high pressure area in the northwest will follow the storm area to the east, and will cause fair weather with heavy frost in this vicinity tonight; Wednesday will be fair. Park attendants and nurserymen should use all precaution for the protection of their tender plants tonight."

CAR SERVICE GOES OUT.

The Utah Light & Railway's street car service was put out of commission for an hour at 6 p.m., and three hours later for 30 minutes Monday by the fierce gale blowing down the high tension wires between Ogden and Weber river. The company finally secured an extra current from the Telluride people, and managed to pull through. The Western Union Telegraph wires east of this city were in trouble, and in the vicinity of Degrer the sleet storm played havoc with the wires, greatly impeding service. However, Manager Long was confident this noon that the wires would be restrung by evening, and the service fully restored. The Postal people report no trouble on their reservation. The Utah Light & Railway's street

VEGETATION NOT HURT.

The weather office reports that as far The weather office reports that as far as is known there, no damage was done to vegetation, although the mercury fell to 32—freezing point. The steady gales kept frost from being deposited, and the coid was not intense enough to seriously chill buds or blossoms. The ground was only slightly frozen. The wind has blown steadily and heavily all day, the same being due to the pressure of a strong high barometric area eastward against a weak, low area which is now over the Mississippl valley. But the weather officials said the wind would subside with the setting of the sun. The cold, raw blasts have made things unpleasant on the ting of the sun. The cold, raw blasts have made things unpleasant on the streets, and the coal dealers are looking pleasant once more.

WIND SAVED THE FRUIT.

Did Not Give the Frost a Chance to Settle on the Buds.

Information by wire from E. G. Mc-Briff of North Ogden, Tuesday is to the effect that the heavy frost of this norning has not done any perceptible damage to the fruit. Mr. McGriff is in charge of one of the largest fruit farms in Weber county, covering nearly 300 acres of all kinds of fruits on the bench 10 miles north of Ogden. This morning he made careful examination of apricots, peaches, cherries, etc., and found no signs of damage having resulted from the snappy weather of the previous night. Mr. McGriff attributes the escape of the fruit principally to the prevailing wind which had a tendency to prevent the frost from settling on the tender bids and blighting them. The fruit trees are at least two weeks further advanced this season than usual, which condition of things makes the present situation considerably more hazardous. damage to the fruit. Mr. McGriff is in

DRISKELL REWARD CLAIMS.

Governor Spry and Mayor Bransford To Discuss Its Award.

The payment of the reward offered by the city and state for the arrest and con viction of the murderer of Special Officer C. C. Riley, will be a subject for conference between Gov. William Spry and Mayor John S. Bransford. It is not likely, however, that the matter will be determined until the final decision is made in the Driskell case. There are a number of claimants for the reward. Driskell will appear before Judge Lewis Thursday for sentence, but according to the intimation given, his attorneys will probably ask for a stay of execution. In which time they will determine whether to appeal the case or not. Should the case be appealed to the supreme court it will be an indefinite period before the final decision is reached, and until that results the reward will be held.
